

Aida Schneider © 2011 All Rights Reserved

V62.82:
Bereavement

There are many forms
mostly prepositional
over
coins sheep sons

anything can be lost
can be grieved

even not grieving
even the missing
habit numbed since by waning scarred pine

squeezes an eyeful of pitch for each ringed year

Carrie A. Purcell
Copyright © 2011

Carrie A. Purcell lives in Seattle. Her poems have appeared in Faultline, the Dudley Review, Floating Bridge Review, Inknode, and elsewhere. She is a proud member of the nonprofit arts group The Heroes.