

Greetings!

The 2022 - 2023 school year is fast approaching; the first day of the new school year will be on September 6, 2022. I had hoped to return to in-person lessons this fall, but unfortunately, the case counts and increased infectiousness of the omicron variants make that impracticable. I will, however, be returning to in-person teaching for those who wish it once Washington State's rate per 100,000 people is consistently under 30. In person lessons will, like the summer, only be available to those who are fully vaccinated with all eligible boosters.

I am looking forward to more virtual music, exploring new ways of composing, and enjoying some duets during our next recital in November. We will continue to have recitals at Wedgwood Presbyterian to allow for social distancing and good ventilation.

I have attached my Calendar, Studio Policies, and a Virtual Lesson Checklist. They will also be up on my website by soon (PianoWithCarrie.com).

A few items of note:

- There will be a small rate increase this year
- I will be mailing a "New Year Packet" to each student
- The classes on October 22, 2022 will be held on Zoom, and will be focused on composing for a story, using the music of Academy Award winning composer Rachel Portman
- I am now offering 60-minute lessons for those whose practice habits and dedication would benefit from an expanded lesson
